

Dr. Anderson – Instructional Planning in Special Education – Transcript

Hi, my name is Kelly Anderson and I'm the instructor for SPED 5175 as a part of our MAT online program. This course, Instructional Planning in Special Education, is one of the first courses in a sequence of courses in completion of your MAT program. This course focuses on the development of IEP, both for adaptive curriculum and for general curriculum students.

I've taught this course for the past five years, and it's actually one of my most enjoyable courses. It's a basic course on the fundamentals of what I.D.E.A. is about and that's the individualized education plan. It's a fun course to teach because it focuses on the spirit and the intent of what IEP's were intended to be for children with disabilities.

As you look around the website, I want you to take note of the different modules the essay questions, and all the different activities you'll do in this course.

In 5175 we cover everything from response to intervention up through transition planning and self determination. So it's really important that you understand this information, you assimilate it and it has meaning for you when you complete the course.

I hope you enjoy this course as much as I enjoy teaching it, and I look forward to having you in class.
